The diagram shows two identical rectangular frames, one above the other, representing the embossed areas on a document. Each frame has a thick black horizontal bar at the top. Inside each frame is a grid for input. The top grid in each frame has 19 columns, with the first row numbered 1 through 19. Below this are three more rows of 19 columns each. The entire diagram is surrounded by a double-line border with tick marks on all four sides, indicating the standard embossed position.
